

Keen Interest In Halliburton Lectures Here

(Continued from Page 1-A) researches that have won the admiration of millions. He swam the Hellespont to see if Leander of old could have done it; he scaled a peak in Central America to survey the blue Pacific from the same point that Balboa first saw that watery expanse; he stayed in the crumbling ruins of Fort Jefferson, America's Devil's Island, where Dr. Samuel Mudd, the man who set the broken leg of John Wilkes Booth after the assassination of Abraham Lincoln, was unjustly imprisoned. Emulating the great Carthaginian general Hannibal, he rode over the Alps on an elephant and down into Italy; for months he existed on Crusoe's Island to experience the high point in that famed fiction character's life; and he became personally acquainted with Halle Selassie in Addis Ababa, with King Ghazi in Iraq, with Emperor Kang Teh in Manchukuo; with James Brooke, potentate of three million Borneo headhunting.

A Smashing Success To these experienced, sparkling interludes of his lectures, will be added Halliburton's other exploits: obtaining a death-bed confession from the chief assassin of the last Russian Tsar and his family; traveling in Ethiopia during the Italian invasion; seeing Russia under Soviet dictatorship; and that made him persona non grata to Stalin and Company because he tells with brutal frankness the facts of Communistic mis-rule. In bringing these amazing travel yarns to Torrance, Halliburton provides a form of entertainment which is rarely offered here. He will be the most outstanding attraction ever to appear in the civic auditorium and reviews of his lectures in other cities this year indicate that his every engagement has been a smashing success. A brilliant speaker, a colorful narrator and a charming personality, he presents his stories with unusual interest and interest that absorbs young and old.

Vermont Heights Development Is Making Progress

The new 45-acre Vermont Heights real estate development, first to be inaugurated in Southwest Los Angeles this year and the largest in this section in more than a decade, is progressing steadily, according to William T. Richardson, subdivision who is also president of the Los Angeles Realty Board. The development encompasses the tract between Hoover street and Vermont avenue from 109th street south to 111th street and will entail a total investment, when completed, of $1,500,000 in land, street improvements and 240 new single family homes, it is reported. Although opened only three weeks ago, 60 sites have already been sold, according to Richardson, and 10 new homes are already under construction. With installation of sewers and new streets now under way the tract is showing great activity. Richardson, who is a widely known realtor and builder, has been actively engaged in home construction in the Los Angeles area since 1922.

He expresses great optimism over the prospects for the home building industry in the next four or five years.

Tax Payments Set New High In County

Letters containing between $16,000,000 and $20,000,000 of current tax remittances were being opened today by the county tax collector's office, with the passing of the deadline for payment without penalty at 5 p. m. Tuesday for second installments on current tax bills.

When the deadline passed, an all-time record of $81,541,157 had been collected in payments thru the teller's windows on first and second installments. This was $8,932,000 over collections made up to the deadline of last year, according to Tax Collector Howard L. Byram.

Meanwhile, Byram set a large force of clerks to work in preparing the 1937 delinquent tax roll, which is to be published June 8. After publication, property owners have until June 30 to redeem their property by paying a penalty of eight percent on the first installment and three percent on the second half, plus 50 cents as the cost of advertising each item.

Former Resident Robbed of House, Barn By Wreckers In Keystone

"The trees were there but the house and barn were gone with the wind!"

Jimmy McGarrigue, well-known Legionnaire and singer who formerly resided here, was relating the story of how he lost his tangible property located at Figueroa and 223rd street in Keystone. Now a resident of Long Beach, McGarrigue was here last night to sing for the 19th district Legion Auxillary Poppy pageant in the Civic Auditorium.

Sometime during the past two or three months two men appeared on his vacant property in Keystone and proceeded to tear down the two buildings. A neighbor inquiring about the work was told that the men had just bought the house and barn from "the owner in Long Beach" and they were wrecking the buildings to obtain the lumber. They were going to use it to build on a mining claim, they said. It took a week to do the job. The neighbor affirmed they were both "fine fellows."

McGarrigue happened to be driving by his property Tuesday evening.

"The trees were there but the house and barn were gone with the wind," he reported last night.
